President's Address

Our dreams of diplomas and of graduation from high school are to be realized within a very short time—now each one of us begins to think of the future. Whether the goal be a profession or business, we are, or should be equally prepared to overcome obstacles that might present themselves in our individual quests for success. If we have put forth the right kind of effort in our four years' work, if we have heeded the wise counsel of our teachers, then we may rest assured that we shall be successful.

After all, it is not the book learning we acquire at school that is going to be of most benefit to us after our school days are over. It is the good habits that we form while trying to master the different subjects that really count. Ten years from now, we may have lost all our knowledge of Latin and mathematics, but the habits of industry and research and accuracy formed by the study of these subjects will remain with us.

Our four years spent at dear old Hutchinson have been years filled with plenty of work as well as fun—but it has been the kind of work that has prepared us for citizenship. The friendly associations with schoolmates and teachers will never be forgotten. Friends of today are our friends of tomorrow! Saying farewell to our comrades may be compared to reading the last chapter of a fine book. As we come to the last pages and close this splendid volume, let us think of the sequel, the pages of which will contain the record of what we accomplish later. May the next volume be worthy of us.

EDMOND LEONE.

Charge to Juniors

We, the class of 1929, realize with deep regret that our career at Hutchinson is drawing to a close. Our graduation and the many pleasant times we have had in this dear place will soon be delightful memories. The time has come for us to relinquish our place to others for we seek "pastures new".

It is to you, dear juniors, to whom we must intrust the Brown and Blue, that beautiful symbol of love, honor, obedience and service. Will you guard the colors with all your strength as we have tried to?

When you are taking the places which we so sorrowfully leave, you will discover that there is a deep significance attached to the office of a senior. For it is you on whom the future of Hutchinson depends. It is you on whom falls the responsibility of upholding the high standards of our school. Do it by giving your whole-hearted support to its activities, by cooperating with its faculty and by being loyal to your duties.

"Be strong!
We are not here to play, to dream, to drift;
We have hard work to do and loads to lift;
Shun not the struggle—face it 'tis God's gift."

May you, the class of 1930, succeed in all that you undertake and when your graduation nears, we hope you will feel as we do, that you have accomplished something worth-while and that you have tried to do your best to uphold the honor of Hutchinson-Central High School, our Alma Mater.

BLANCHE LANKLER.

Response

Members of the Class of 1929:

Encouraged and inspired by your example, we, the Junior Class are now about to assume Senior responsibilities. As you turn your precious charge over to our care, we feel like new sentries taking on the duties of the watch. "ALMA MATER, on to victory," is our pass-word.

Class of 1929, we will keep guard. "All's Well."

EARL W. ANDERSON

President of Junior Class.

Class Poem

Come ye, and of thy Alma Mater sing,
Come bearing laurels, garlands, flowers fair,
To deck her walls and strew her spacious grounds,
That far and wide our steadfast love be sung.
For lo, the destined day draws quickly nigh,
The sad event which every heart doth rend.

'Tis hard to take last leave of thee we love,
Within whose walls have ever been in all
Our grief, solace; delight in all our joys;
Whose wide-swung doors are gates that daily ope
Unto Elysium's ethereal realms,
Wherein wise shepherds ever kindly lead
Their flocks to pastures rich, and also guide
Them to the clear Pierian spring hidden
In this empyreal demesne. Within
Thy walls we have but four short seasons dwelt,
Now must we hence; it grieves our hearts.
Yet is our sorrow in departing thus
Assuaged for happy memories of these
Fleeting days will bless our later years.

Thou gracious mother, constant star of learning,
Emblazed hast our souls with vivid flames:
To live rich lives for our content, to serve
Our fellows. With a high resolve to work
To right the wrong and to uphold the right;
Ever to keep our faith with every man;
And often pause to ponder truths eternal.

With tears unbidden that we can but shed,
We now bid thee farewell. But as we part
We heed thy teachings, and thy name shall be
A constant echo and a light, as on
We mount the steep and thorny paths which lead
Through quest and toil to peace and happiness;
We know the cherished friends from whom we part
Will ever be like to the stars that gem
The heavens bright, changeless and fair.

Yet in departure let us dry our tears,
Look to our future goal, decide the road
By which to gain that end; for always thy
Wisdom, our loved Alma Mater, shines like
A light which sheds its rays serene and pure
Brightening the path unknown. So exultantly
We go, attended by the "vision splendid."

Class History

An old Indian chief, a graduate of Carlisle College, dons the regalia of his ancestors and narrates the history of a famous tribe.

PROLOGUE.

"Should you ask me, whence these stories?
Whence these legends and traditions,
With the odors of the forest,
With the curling smoke of wigwams,
With the rushing of great rivers,
With their frequent repetitions,
And their wild reverberations,
As of thunder in the mountains?

I should answer, I should tell you,
From the forests and the prairies,
From the great lakes of the Northland,
From the land of the Ojibways,
From the land of the Dacotahs
From the mountains, moors, and fenlands,
From the lips of Nawadaha
The musician, the sweet singer.

Ye, whose love of wild traditions,
Of the songs of ancient races,
Stirs your souls with utmost pleasure,
To retrace that former nation
Thru the years of hoary ages;
In the shadow of thick forests,
Mid the whirling winds of Autumn
In the dales beneath huge mountains
Listen to this ancient legend.

Ye, who love a nation's legends,
Love the ballads of a people
That like voices from afar off,
Call to us to pause and listen,
Speak in tones so plain and childlike
Scarcely can the ear distinguish
Whether they are sung or spoken;—
Listen to this Indian legend,
To this song of Indian peoples."

Many, many years ago, in the dense part of a thick forest inhabited by a few buffaloes, lived some poor, dejected tribes of Indians. Again and again, they implored the Great Spirit to aid them, for they were lost in darkness (ignorance). Time wore on. Their war paint was wearing off; they needed new skins for clothing and new game (higher education) for food. Finally, determined in their efforts to escape, they moved away (grammar school graduations) and set out to seek a new and a more plentiful forest (high school).

They traveled a weary way and at last came upon the Goenos Gandata, the largest camp (Hutchinson), where dwelt a tribe of Indians renowned far and wide for courage and skill. Strange as it may seem, their big chief (Mr. Thomas) invited the wanderers to come into the camp. After the ceremonies of alliance (first assemblies), the weak Indians were supplied with new tepees (studyrooms) and were given new weapons (books). With these they were handed wampum belts on which were written taboos or laws which were not to be violated while they remained in the new camp (Brown and Blue books).

Thus, under the guidance of the wise men and the skilled warriors of the tribe (teachers), they began to train with the others, receiving primary instructions in hunting (for facts), shooting at far targets (for marks), and fishing (for information). Clan meetings (classes) were announced.

These experiences were difficut for them at first, but, little by little, they became accustomed to the new camp and joined the rest in a great victory celebration (Columbia Cup Victory, October 1925). Day after day they faithfully trained, for the yearly hunt was approaching. After extensive preparation, they went out to look for big game (exams), quite confident in their preparedness to overcome the ferocious beasts. However, few returned with good luck, since a great many lost their skill and shot at random. After the long and bewildering season (spring semester) many were glad to take a prolonged rest (Summer vacation, June '26).

In the early days of the autumn moon, training was once more resumed. Many of the strongest youths turned out for daily practice along different lines of sports. Each day some added to their strength (better marks on home cards), while others tried to endure without flinching, the pains of hunger and thirst (afternoon study-room). Many famous visitors came to the camp and presided over special ceremonials (big assembly programs).

The tribe was looking forward to the next season when, suddenly, with little warning, a pestilence spread over the camp (Regents). Those who survived strove to win new fame at contests in archery (Honor Mornings). Nevertheless, they did not fail to stress the development of oratorical power (Inter-High School debates, Declamation contests).

When the Ram had run half its course, a solemn gathering was held to choose a chief (Carleton Emslie, president of Junior class) and a body of Faithkeepers to assist him, (Bell, Lankler, Leone, Babcock, Steils). With the advent of warm weather a great ceremony was held in honor of the red cedar, the totum of the tribe (Junior Day). While dancing and singing, they planted this tree with the others, in the forest.

Then the athletes, who had distinguished themseleves in the camp, were chosen to vie for inter-tribal honors (Football, Cross-country), but still keen competition remained within the camp (Senior Honor Rolls). A new tom-tom beater was elected to call the tribe together and to beat at celebration, games and dances, (Carl Frey, head cheerleader). As the final hunting season speedily approached, all prepared with great eagerness. A new body of Faithkeepers was initiated (Anthony Sapienza, president of Senior Class, Lankler, Marcussen, Sketchley, Steils, Coleman, Maggioli, Di Pasquale) to assist at the big feast day of the camp (Class Day).

The tribe had now become famous for its prowess. Its members were strong and powerful.

One night under the moon and stars they gathered together for the big campfire celebration (Commencement) to be honored by the great chief (Mr. Thomas) with rewards (diplomas) for brave deeds (passing Senior examinations).

Prophecy of the Class of 1929

CHARACTERS:

Miner—Edmond Coleman

Freak—Jack Hurley

Setting—The curtain rises disclosing a barren dim-lit stage. It is the interior of a natural cave far below the surface. There is a sound of a pick on rocks and suddenly a crash is heard off stage. A Miner has broken through from a coal bed. He comes to center stage and stares wonderingly. He carries a small pick with which he begins to test the rock wall at right. The light on the miner's cap flashes about the wall. Finally, he becomes intent on a particular section of the rock. At rear middle stage, there is a small, blinking light which grows steadily. Suddenly in the doorway appears a "freak" outlandishly grotesque in appearance. He stands in the opening and blinks his eyes. Then he goes to the darkened left side of stage. Miner hears something, whirls about quickly but can see nothing. He resumes his examination. The freak comes to front center stage, stares stupidly at the audience and then goes right stage just behind the Miner.

Freak:—What Ho!

(Miner starts and turns slowly around and then grows horrified at the sight.)

Miner:—Really now, this is no suitable place for practical jokes.

Freak:—(Laughs).

Miner:—I don't see anything humorous in this situation. I just broke into this cave while digging in the mine and while investigating, I am confronted with you. Will you please explain who you are and where you come from?

Freak:—It's a long, long story! You remember a terrible earthquake that wreaked havoc in this particular section of the country back in 1930?

Miner:—Quite well. It was a horrible affair. Not one person was left living who was in the area at the time. But that has nothing to do with you. That was 25 years ago!

Freak:—Oh yes it has, because there was one person left living although he never saw the surface of the earth again, and I am that unfortunate person.

Miner:—And you've been down here all that time?

Freak:—(Nods).

Miner:—But why do you wear that strange costume?

Freak:—A trick of nature! When swallowed by the earth and thrown into this cave, I developed this form but I retained my voice, my mind, and my hearing. My eyes though large in size, are poor in sight. (There is a sort silence and then the Freak recovers his cheeriness). We're not going to brood over my troubles. I'm too glad to see a real human after all these twenty-five years. Perhaps, you may recall reading my name among the missing of the disaster. It is — — — — — Or rather was Jack Hurley.

Miner:—(Concentrates) Jack Hurley? Not Jack Hurley of Hutchinson's class of 1929?

Freak:—(Surprised) Do you know me?

Miner:—If that's who you are, I do. I'm Ed Coleman of the same class.

Freak:—Well, for goodness sake! Have you seen any of the old bunch since 'way back twenty-five years ago?

Miner:—(Sadly).

No. One by one they drifted off and now they're all gone. (Sighing) I'd give anything if I knew what some of them were doing right now! But what have you been doing down here all that time?

Freak:—For each of the 365 days of the 25 years, I have amused myself by watching the doings of the people on the surface of the earth, New York, Chicago, Paris, Pekin, anywhere.

Miner:—(Emphatically) No!

Freak:—(More emphatically) Yes!

Miner:—(Awe-stricken) You don't tell me!

Freak:—Certainly I do! This is a wonderful cave! Do you see that rock?

Miner:—Yes, I believe I actually do.

Freak:—That rock is highly sensitive—in fact it is an absolute television plate. By merely concentrating your mind upon some individual or place; you witness upon this rock a motion picture of your subject. Would you like to try it?

Miner:—Do you hear me resenting?

Freak:—Very well, then. Sit down here.

(They both sit down facing wall at right which suddenly becomes illuminated). Now, concentrate on the subject you wish exposed.

Miner:—Let's try Chicago. That's a nice quiet place. (Slight pause) Look, Jack, look! It's coming on! And it's one of those Marathon singing contests. Darvin De Marchi and Anthony Sapienza are in it. They're at it again. I remember the first one they were in. Anthony sang "Way Down South in Dixie" for two weeks and a half. Darvin won because he sang "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Freak:—Here comes the promoter on the screen. It's Elmer Toll! He's a big marathon promoter now. I understand he will stage a gum chewing marathon at Crystal Beach next summer. If Helen Maidy, Tillie Miller and Eddy Willahan take tickets as usual, they'll have to open an annex. Eleanor Peacock and Velma Hurst have entered their names as competitors. Still up to old tricks. If you know what I mean. Blanche Lankler is head nurse for the affair. She'll come out of this a jaw specialist.

Miner:—There's a box of "Ossy Till's" Chewing Gum for the winner, and a week's vacation as guest of Irma Hausauer, Buffalo's World-famous aviatrix. Recently, she made a successful non-stop flight from the airport in Buffalo all the way to Kenmore. Doris Gehrs is kept busy sending out autographed photos of Irma to her many fans. (Slight pause) Jack, this is absolutely wonderful! Let's have New York.

Freak:—Certainly! We'll see what's going on there.

Miner:—There it comes. Why it looks just like a radio station.

Freak:—And that's just what it is.

Miner:—Here comes the announcer up to the microphone now. Say, that's old Bill Steils.

Freak:—Nobody else but! With that little mustache of his you would never recognize him as the Bill Steils we once knew. Two more of our bunch are his assistants, Bill Deranek and Bob Dahmer. They were recenttly awarded the Gift of Gab.

Miner:—They're always trying to beat each other. Last April Fool's Day, Bill called Bob on the phone. Bob lives out Main Street now. Bill disguised his voice and said, "Hello, Mr. Dahmer?" And Bob answered, "Speaking." Then Steils spoke as follows: "I'm Mr. Greenwater representing the General Outdoor Advertising Company. As I understand it, your residence is on the Main Street Car Line?" Dahmer replied in the affirmative. "Then," said Bill in a cool voice full of conviction. "You had better get it off Bob, there's a street car coming." Bob is still waiting his chance to get even.

most famous quartets, they form a block on the stock market and control all the stock of the Radiovision Corporation of America.

Miner:—Allan Dyte wrote their last hit entitled, "Don't Hang Up the Wash While It's Raining." Dot Gaffke and her Band of Bums have made it a huge success.

Freak:—There's Ham Jones over in the corner. He will probably give an illustrated lecture on "Beauty Spots of the Tonawandas." Ruth Long is over there too. She just made a hit in the "Whoopees of 1950" and became Broadway's favorite over night. She was entertained the other day in Jerry McMahon's tea room down in Greenwich Village. Did you know that Florence Lazuras and Lily Friedman are pursuing Dramatics there.

Miner:—I hope they catch them. Chet Brenntfuehrer is on Easy Street with Ruth Long's five year contract in his pocket. He's going to clean up! Which reminds me, Bobby Gross was elected Commissioner of Streets up in Hamburg the other day. The two political factions are warring as to whether his secretary shall be Ruth Marcussen or Henrietta Maier.

Freak:—While Leone Babcock is telling how fudge might be made if she knew how to make it, I'd like you to tell me whatever became of our two big football men, Jerry Brock and Frank Schiavone.

Miner:—Funny thing, Jack, but they both became football coaches. Jerry is head coach at Yale. By the way, Esther Pfohl became Dean there just a few years ago. It's the first time that the University has had a woman executive. And as for Frank, he is filling the place Hurry-up Yost vacated upon his retirement eight years ago. Yale and Michigan are deadly rivals now. At the last game two of our class, Tommy Dileo and Pat Salemi were shelled with pop bottles for predicting that neither side would score. Eva Mayer, that great journalist, in an editorial called "Common Sense—As It Is Applied" said that if they had used their heads and predicted one side to be the winner, the barrage would have been cut in two and at the same time would have enjoyed the support of the college they had defended. At the hospital, the head nurse, Olive Sketchley, said it was only through a miracle that they escaped misplaced eyebrows.

Freak:—Well, that's interesting! Wait a moment now, I've got an idea there's something doing in Hollywood.

Miner:—Let's have a glance. Get the Osa Glover Studios.

Freak:—Here it is and right in the middle there is one of the bunch writing gags for comedies. I can't make him out yet.

Miner:—I can. It's Al Maggioli and that is just what I thought he would end up with. Look, over there to the left. They're filming a talkie. Let's concentrate on that. (Pause) There, it's closing up now.

Freak:—Yes, and the hero is none other than Tommy Kennelly.

Miner:—Everybody says he is a second John Gilbert. In his last picture, "Sifted Flour" he broke all box office records.

Freak:—The girl playing opposite him now is one whom you should remember. It's Jennie Jengo. She went to Europe, stayed there ten years, and then came back a finished actress. I understand she is making lots of money.

Miner:—It's a fact and Emerie Spahn is losing his hair taking care of it. They say that when he made out her income tax last year, the government thought the remittance was a payment in full of all our old war debts.

Freak:—(Laughs) Say there's Johnny Pitkin directing that play. He still wears those traditional short pants. And there's those world famous juvenile stars, Ethel

Baldwin and Milly Bell. They've both made their fortunes in the talkies and though they are rivals, they remain the best of friends. Ethel lays her success to the fact that she has taken Mellin's Baby Food twice a day ever since childhood. Milly has never forsaken Kenneth Winnie's delightful soap preparation. Jack Ebberts who plays opposite both of them is absolutely non-partisan in declaring who is the better actor. Right now Jack is being filmed with Thin-Gin-Gin in a northern drama. The name of it is "The Snake in the Grass."

Miner:—Your mention of soap a moment ago reminded me of soap boxes and soap boxes remind me that Fannie Lippa is advocating a radical change in the weather. She has made several stirring speeches about it. And speaking of stirring reminds me that Evelyn Skinner is conducting a cooking school now and has made some wonderful discoveries in the art of Cake Baking. Elvira Privatera and Leona Goetz are the chief demonstrators and they certainly whip a mean cake. Bruno Zagner and Eugene Goris are the testers. They never recover from indigestion. They never get the chance. And that calls to my mind — — — —

Freak:—And while all this reminding is taking place, may I remind you that you are probably long overdue at the surface. They will start a search for you.

Miner:—That's right! I guess I'll have to get started back. But say, Jack, you've got to come with me. I won't leave you down here any longer.

Freak:—(Laughing sadly) Sorry, Ed but I couldn't go back like this and you couldn't expect me to. This is my fate and I've got to live it out. You know we all have a destiny— — — — — —

His voice is drowned out by a sudden road of thunder. The house is plunged into darkness and there are frequent flashes of lightning. The thunder continues. Suddenly the stage lights go on disclosing the interior of a room. There two over-stuffed chairs on stage, one left front and the other right back. There are other pieces of incidental furniture. In the chair right back, Jack is seated comfortably reading a scientific magazine. In the other, Ed is sleeping but suddenly comes to life as the thunder continues. He rises and stretches and — —

Ed:—Some storm. It's pouring out. (He watches storm for a moment and then turns to Jack). Say Jack! (Jack looks up closing book) I just had the funniest dream.

Jack:—From the way you snored, I thought you were having a nightmare.

(He comes forward and meets Ed in center front stage.)

Ed:—Well, it was as far as you're concerned. I dreamed that I was a miner and that while mining coal in Pennsylvania I broke into an underground cave and while examining the walls you came upon me as a freak.

(Jack looks disgustedly).

Jack:—That so?

Ed:—Yes and I dreamed that on the rock wall we were able to see what was going on out in the world just be concentrating on that subject. Funny dream, wasn't it? But I saw all the old bunch at school doing things twenty-five years from now.

Jack:—Maybe I could get you a position as a medium.

Ed:—Well I'm going to tell Einstein about it. He'll be interested! And for that matter I might be able to use that idea in the prophecy that I'm going to write for the Class.

Jack:—(As they start to walk off stage) It's a good idea but if you don't mind. I shouldn't like to have my name connected with that freak in the future.

Ed:—(Assuringly) Sure thing, Jack.

CURTAIN

EDMOND COLEMAN.

Valedictory

Tonight, dear classmates, have been opened to us the golden portals of the future. Yesterday, we stood before them and curiously wondered what was on the other side. Tomorrow, we shall be on the other side. But tonight, we are neither here nor there. Tonight, we stand on the threshold, with the privilege of looking backward or forward.

As we look into the past and realize that soon these doors must close forever, we are somewhat at a loss. Conflicting emotions overwhelm us. There is a peculiar tugging at our heart strings; our eyes are moist and our lips tremble. We are happy to know that we have attained the highly cherished goal for which we have been striving during the past four years. We are glad that the first scene in the drama of life has been auspiciously enacted; but we regret that we must part with our classmates, with our teachers, and with our Alma Mater. How difficult would be this leave-taking, we could not anticipate, so strong are the bonds of friendship that unite us.

To Mr. Thomas and to the members of the faculty, we owe a tremendous debt of gratitude. Their influence through their teachings, and their kindliness, have been so creative, that we fully realize how futile would be mere words of appreciation. If, however, we can thank them by becoming what they would like us to become; by forever living true to those ideals which they have inspired in us; then let them rest assured that we shall do our best to prove that their efforts in character-building have been successful.

To Hutchinson, our Alma Mater, whose protecting walls have housed us through the four happiest years of our lives, we promise:

"Our hearts that learned to love her
Will steadfast be and true,
However far in life we stray
From Central's Brown and Blue."

We would linger on this threshold a while longer; but time waits not for man. The portals are shut, gently but finally, and we find ourselves in a new world. Eagerly we lift our heads in an effort to see what life has in store for us; in an endeavor to fathom its mystery:

"O world invisible, we view thee,
O world intangible, we touch thee,
O world unknowable, we know thee,
Inapprehensible, we clutch thee."

We see the beginnings of many paths, each of which will be trodden by one or more of us. The time has come for us to part, but before we say good-bye, may we not wish each other Godspeed on the long road of our choice? May we look forward to many happy reunions in this, the school we have learned to love so well?

Francis Thompson, in his Envoi to his book of poems, strikes a note of regret for what is past and of promise for what is yet to come, that we may echo as we say "Farewell."

"Go, songs, for ended is our brief, sweet play;
Go, children of swift joy and tardy sorrow:
And some are sung, and that was yesterday,
And some unsung, and that may be tomorrow.

Go forth; and if it be o'er stony way,
Old joy can lend what newer grief must borrow:
And it was sweet, and that was yesterday,
And sweet is sweet, though purchased with sorrow.

Go, songs, and come not back from your far away:
And if men ask you why ye smile and sorrow,
Tell them ye grieve, for your hearts know Today,
Tell them ye smile, for your hearts know Tomorrow."

Valedictory

Listen to the Exhortation of the Dawn!
Look to this Day!
For it is life, the very life of life.
In its brief course lie all the verities
And realities of your existence:

So spoke the poet of old. This for us is the new dawn. It is the commencement, the beginning of a new day. We have experienced the period of doubt, of uncertainty, even of the darkness that comes before the dawn but the glory of the rising sun has dispelled our fears. We revel in its beauty and grandeur, its vastness and mystery. But we must face the challenge of the dawn. Before us is the new day. What shall we make of it? How shall we use it? "The glory of action, the bliss of growth, the splendor of beauty" are all ours if we will but reach forth and grasp them. It is for us to decide if we shall so live that every yesterday will be a "dream of happiness" and every tomorrow a "vision of hope."

Tonight we leave our Alma Mater. It becomes us, the midyear class of 1929, to acknowledge our gratitude for what Hutchinson has done for us. We must say goodby to the kindly mother who has watched over us these four pleasant years. As we leave her sheltering walls, let us keep forever inscribed on our hearts the lessons she has taught, the truths and ideals she has inculcated in us. We have tried to add our share to her honors and to "keep the faith with our Hutchinson." Her banner enwrought with letters of light to us means Honor, Courage, Hope and Service.

We look back over our school days with mingled feelings of joy and sorrow. We rejoice because of the splendid guidance we have had here. We regret that we must leave behind this protecting care. We have been guided on the path that leads to higher things. We have grown in things spiritual.

Tonight we take our place in the world as citizens of tomorrow. We shall have certain duties to perform, certain obligations that must be met. We must not fail or shirk. We must face our tasks with courage and with zest. It behooves us as future citizens of this great nation solemnly to vow that we will give the best that is in us.

We are deeply thankful to Hutchinson for the preparation she has given us for our life work. The knowledge and training we have received will help us to solve many of our problems. We must be worthy of our Alma Mater because of what she has given us to keep for all time.

It is not easy to bid farewell to our teachers, to our friends, to our school, the school that we love so much. But with the challenge of the dawn before us and our beloved memories of Hutchinson we shall carry her ideals afar, for

"She calls for our allegiance
To noble aims and fair,
And in our souls we wear her seal,
All life shall find it there."

EUGENIA C. PRATT.

The Hobo

On a narrow, dusty street in a crowded city, overheated, footsore, tired pedestrians were listlessly dragging their dull, irresponsive bodies toward home. Subtly this scene was changed. A slight breeze had sprung up and began to tease the pale, colorless leaves on the scraggly trees. Unconsciously, the pedestrians began to brace their shoulders, to sniff the air eagerly. The leaves gradually assumed a gayer color, the trees a more dignified appearance. And now the wind—that careless, ragged, debonair Hobo—rushed upon them almost unexpectedly. No one could withstand his charming, innocent smile. Here a young girl was protestingly, yet laughingly, lured hither and yon before his charms. Because a somber young man paid no heed to him even when he exerted himself to his utmost, the Hobo playfully lifted the young man's hat from his head and sent it whirling along the street. Behold the youth vainly sprinting after it, his coat streaming behind him. His predicament was further accentuated by an inoffensive piece of paper, which Mr. Hobo, thinking the young man might wish to play with it, flung upon him and snuggled up to his face. To the Hobo's great surprise, the youth rudely pulled it away and cast it aside. Having fully repaid the young man for his stand-offishness, the friendly scapegrace looked about for further merriment. He suddenly espied a fashionably dressed stout woman turning the corner. Ha! she was the one who had firmly shut the door in his face on his last visit. Now for some sport. He twisted her skirts, pulled her carefully marcelled hair into wild disorder, and, with a mighty breath, propelled her down the street perilously fast. He stopped and stood holding his sides, shaking with laughter at her discomfited, perspiring, red face and disheveled appearance. However, his laughter soon stopped, for he had seen a person in distress. It was a little lady venturing across the street. Summoning his breath, this graceless vagabond fairly lifted her off her feet and across the street, where, instead of thanking him she clung convulsively to a friendly lamp-post. Amazed, he decided to continue to another part of the city where he would receive more appreciation. Thus, with a last merry whirl and a gallant farewell whistle, he was off on his sports, leaving the dusty street with its exhausted and listless occupants to their own devices.

Transitory

Fall is a Gypsy
With a kirtle of red.
Leaves turn a crimson
Over her head.
Torches of sumac
Burst into flame;
Winds at the dawning
Whisper her name.
Fall—
Gather your coins
Now while you may,
Grey ghosts of summer
Travelled this way.

Let Me Enlighten You

Many people have the peculiar idea that Scotland is a little town of about five or six thousand inhabitants, situated somewhere in England, and ground under the heel of some despotic lord; populated by a people, backward, uneducated, who live in mud huts, dress like women, and in many other respects are only half civilized. As this is an entirely false impression that they have, please let me enlighten you.

Scotland lies to the north of England and in area is about two-thirds the size of England. It is governed by the same government as England and has its representatives on an equal basis with that of England. Glasgow, the largest city in Scotland, is much larger than the city of Buffalo. Although Glasgow is the largest city, it is not the capital. Edinburgh, with its law courts, is the capital. The Scottish race is not backward and uneducated; in fact, it is most progressive and educated. A country that has produced such men as Livingstone; Carnagie; Watt, who discovered the power of steam; and an ex-prime minister, MacDonald, such a country surely cannot be called backward. As for education, it has a system on a par with that of the United States; public schools, high schools and normal colleges, all are free to the public, including night schools. The apartment houses in Scotland are very unlike those of America. Built on a different plan of solid sandstone, they are much more healthful to live in than those erected by Americans. At the same time, however, thatched roofed houses are found in the older parts of some of the small towns. Running water, gas, and electricity are found in all houses except those that are too far removed from a town.

Many Europeans have the idea that all Americans are dressed like cowboys and ride around on horseback. A similar situation prevails among Americans who think that all Scotsmen dress in the kilts. This is not true, just as it is not true about the Americans dressing as cowboys. The kilt is worn mostly as a dress suit; worn at social events and worn to church by the boys on Sunday.

Not all countries have a national musical instrument. Scotland has—the bagpipes. The bagpipes are terms as a 'set'; the common expression being "the 'pipes'." It is a reed instrument. There are four reeds in all: one chanter reed and three drone reeds. The drones are the three long projections from the bag, and the chanter is the one which has the holes which when manipulated correctly produce the music. The bag portion is in reality a goat's stomach. This bag holds the wind or air while the piper or player takes in a breath. The bagpipes mean almost as much to the Scottish people as Old Glory means to the Americans.

Robert Burns, the immortal bard, has contributed more to the individuality of the Scottish people and Scotland than any other one man has. His poems and songs have instilled in the Scottish people a loyalty and a patriotism that will never die. It will live forever. Another Scottish poet and novelist who has won international renown is Sir Walter Scott. Born in Abbotsford, Scotland, he lived among his native heather practically all his life. His works, unlike those of Robert Burns, are mostly in English, while those of Burns are mostly in the Scottish dialect.

In conclusion, let me say that the Scots are not a backward, downtrodden people but an independent, healthy, music and literature loving people—a people who have done much for the world. Moreover, they are a people who will do more for mankind in the future.

The Diary of a Bad Little Boy

Now this little boy was not really bad, only young and mischievous. However, he was so little that he didn't know what "bad" meant, so he didn't mind being called "mama's bad little boy." Besides, mama said these words so tenderly and so affectionately that he liked the title. Here are some of his adventures as told by the tiny chap himself in his diary.

June 17, 1915 (He was born in 1912.)

A. M.

7:00—Mama's getting worse and worse; I wake her up.

7:10—I play with little automobile that Papa brought me yesterday. Mother brings me breakfast.

8:00—I take the little automobile apart.

8:30—I throw the little automobile away.

8:31—I get dressed.

8:45—I play with my kiddie-cart.

9:00—I find a box of nails.

9:01—I find a hammer. Fine!

9:02—I find a wooden chair. Very good!

9:03—I enjoy myself thoroughly with all three.

10:00—Mama finds the chair. Not so good!

10:03—Mama catches me. I get what I was expecting. I wonder what I did.

10:30—I play in a mud puddle. I make mud pies. Lots of fun!

10:40—I eat mud pie.

10:50—Funny feeling in my stomach!

11:00—Mama calls me in for dinner. I don't think I want to eat. I guess my pie wasn't so very good for me.

11:10—I'm positive my mud pie wasn't good for me. (Memoranda: Don't eat any more mud pies.)

11:25—Pain in stomach better! I eat dinner.

12:00M—I lie down for my nap.

P. M.

2:00—I get up and go outside.

2:01—I decide to take a walk.

2:10—I'm still walking.

2:12—I just stopped walking. One of my noses tickles me. I see a big chicken coop.

2:14—I enter chicken coop. There are lots of nice chickens here. Gee, look at the cute little chicks. I play with them.

4:00—A bunch of men and boys pass by a little way from here. They seem to be looking for something.

4:30—Two men in nice blue suits with lots of brass buttons go by. They also seem to be looking for something. Wonder what it is.

4:45—Here comes Papa and Jimmie, the little boy who lives next door. I shout to Papa, "Hello, Papa! Hello, Jimmie!" Papa looks surprised, then glad. He runs to me. I show him the nice little chicks. He picks me up and carries me home, all the time shouting, "I've found him! I've found him!"

5:00—We get home. Mama hugs me and kisses me. It's nice. She cries and says, "Oh, my poor little honey-bunch, were you lost? You won't ever run away again, will you?" etc. Papa gives the men in the blue suits lots of cigars. They smile at me and go away. I like them.
5:30—We eat supper. Mama gives me a big piece of cake. Ymmmmmmmmmm
6:00—Papa plays with me. He ties a balloon to the chandelier with a long string. I punch the balloon.
6:10—I punch the balloon against Papa's cigar. It explodes.
6:10½—Papa stops playing with me.
6:15—I find a penny on the floor.
6:16—I swallow the penny.
6:17—My swallower doesn't work so well.
6:20—I drink the kitten's milk. Fine!
6:25—I throw the cat's fish on mother's bed. I never did like fish!
6:30—I "read" the funny pictutres in the newspaper.
7:00—I go to sleep.

And thus we leave the little fellow to his own playful devices.

ROBERT GROSS.

A Scot's Version

A wee fond lambkin Mary had,
Its fleece a sna' drift pure,
An' ilka airt that Mary gaed
There gaed the lamb demure.

An' faithfu' to her liltin' step
The Dame School's portal passes,
Syne mounts, wi' airy skip, a stool!
Loud laugh the bonny lasses!

The Dame, altho' wi' twinklin' e'e,
Maun turn the chiel gidby—
Whaur bides he close, a loyal swain
That lo'es, nor reasons why.

A Tapestry in Nature

Snowy masses of clouds drifted through the mid-summer sky, forming fantastic shapes for the eyes of the dream-laden watchers below. There were immense, forested mountains, that later changed to a pasture where drowsy sheep grazed, and daisies bowed gracefully to the gallant wind. Then a winding river appeared, upon whose moss-grown banks poised a slender doe, clearly outlined against the crimson-flooded sky. Nearby, the rumble of a waterfall became audible, while farther away, a cow-bell tinkled a distant melody. A great collie and I were the dream-drawn watchers who spent an entire afternoon simply admiring the wonderful mists gathered in heaven.

47,243 pupils made use of the library for reference or study during the school year.

The average attendance at the readings 8th period was 81.

The Literary Society this year presented two illustrated volumes to the library: "Alice in Wonderland" and Poe's "Tales of Mystery and Imagination."

One hundred books were added to the library through the generosity of Miss King.

Gifts of books and magazines have been received from many other teachers.

A valuable set of books, "America", in 12 volumes was given the library by Howard Bissell of the Class of 1896.

Hamilton Jones gave the library two very valuable books on the Civil War.

Scholarship 1928-29

"Learning by study must be won,
'Twas ne'er entailed from sire to son."—Gay.

"Our grand business undoubtedly is, not to see what lies dimly at a distance, but to do what lies clearly at hand."—Carlyle.

We are pleased to report a steady increase in scholarship this year.

First quarter. 135 pupils won the bronze H.

Second quarter. 191 pupils were on the Honor Roll. 107 of these won the bronze H. C. and 84 the H.

Third quarter. 223 pupils won honors. 90 of these earned the silver H. C. H. 52 the H. C. and 81 the H.

The following pupils stood highest during the first, second and third quarters respectively,

Ella Schillke, 95.8	Ella Schillke, 96.7
Constantine Gugliuzza, 97.6	Esther Pfohl, 96.6

The money for our Honor pins is provided by the Activities Fund. Last year we spent $330.20. The Honor pupils of 1927-1928 were awarded many scholarships and we feel that the money used to purchase these gold, silver, and bronze pins brought us splendid returns.

The scholarship committee wishes to thank Mr. Thomas, the teachers, and the pupils for their cooperation.

Shelley

Thy face is as a poem without words
And rather would thy face be read than verse
By me. There sound in it the precious chords
On which thou oft didst play unto thy nurse,
The lyric Muse, who blest thy gentle face.
Those pretty features chiseled clear and fine.
In woeful worlds find not a single place
Wherein to still that restless soul of thine.
Those sensitive, ethereal eyes of love,
Enrapturing all who on them pause to gaze,
Enthrall our spirits as the stars above.
Behold thy hair as wild as oceans' waves!
Thy fiery soul that freedom's garb doth wear,
Accursed by man, is thine eternal care.

THOMAS KENNELLY.

Service

In reference to school life and activities service is a theme of vital issue. To some the word service conveys the meaning a desire to help, to get into things and to do work for the sake and glory of others; to some the word conveys nothing. Throughout his four years, the student uninterested and unwilling to do service walks insularly about, concerned in his microscopic area and considering it a blessing that he does not have to race around the building delivering notices, or perspiringly trot around Johnson Park "getting in trim" for the track meet. "Why should he?" he asks himself—Yes, why should he?—that is the question.

There comes a day when each man must give a reckoning and so he too must enumerate his worthy accomplishments. This enumeration takes place just before his graduation. Humiliating will it not be? to put "----" after Service. Reflection comes with humiliation. "Extra curriculum activities are of as much moment as are the required, scheduled studies," he concludes. "Yes," he ponders, "I could have made the basketball team; I did refuse to do monitor service; I could have exerted myself and added my mite to Hutch's glory. Service in the Decoration Club was mine for but a willingness to work—alas and alack it is too late. This is thought for my future times!"

You, lower classmen, need not cry alack and alas. Start now. Work, help—not for your benefit, not for personal achievement, but all for the greater glory of a grand old school—Hutchinson—Will you?

ELVIRA PRIVITERA.

Upon the conduct of each and every individual connected with Hutchinson depends the trend of the old and proud tradition of good breeding which is hers. Whether that tradition shall be heightened or become just a past memory—that rests with the students of today. Yesterday's students have done their share; tomorrow's will keep the faith if we of today show them the way. Our example must be one of consideration for others and respect for just authority. Unpleasant conditions of today must be done away with.

Youth is graceful and attractive. How incongrous then to see some slouching along the halls and boisterously talking. Between bells there is that rushing group, each individual of which seems eager only for diversion during the passing of classes. With this aim in view he rushes hither and thither, pushing, jostling, slapping on shoulders, not pardoning himself nor caring to think of the discomfort brought on others.

In the classroom there is the pupil—not scholar—who with calm contentment chews gum and reads his history lesson while his mathematics teacher is laboring to explain the binomial theorem. He is as disturbing as the person who whispers surreptitiously to his neighbor in the studyroom during a class. Both distract students who are trying to concentrate, break the trend of the teacher's thought, and in general interfere with harmony and order.

One of our peculiar idiosyncrasies is that spontaneous and simultaneous chorus of coughing, hemming, and hawing following the reading of the prayer in assembly.

Those who wear the school tam or cap ought to be especially jealous of Hutchinson's fair name for they proclaim to all the world their loyalty to Hutch. Sometimes their actions on bus or car are not all that could be wished.

By our actions—intentional or otherwise—is Hutch judged. Each individual offense seems insignificant, but the aggregate may be astounding. There is encouragement however in the fact that these are but tendencies. They will not become realities if coming Hutchinsonians do their part in the molding of school character. In your hands rests the determination of the direction of our growth. Which way shall we go?

Student Board

The first meeting of the Student Board was held on Friday, November 23, 1928. The meeting was conducted by Mr. Thomas.

The officers for the year "28-29" were elected:

President ..... Carleton Emslie

Secretary ..... Margaret Wolff

This organization includes the captains and managers of all athletic teams. It also includes representatives of other school activities. This board with the approval of the finance committee from the faculty makes money appropriations for the different organizations and activities of the school.

The Boys' Council

The Boys' Council was organized in nineteen twenty-five under the direction of Mr. Beam for the purpose of developing such ideals as are for the best interests of the student body and of the school. It is composed of a group of students who have been elected by their study rooms to represent them in the Council.

Since its inception the Boys' Council has been a success. During the few years of its existence it has served to bring about a closer understanding between the students and the faculty. By securing the hearty cooperation of the student body it has been able to fulfill its purpose satisfactorily.

Although the Boys' Council was organized later than usual this year, the enthusiasm of the members of the Council and the cooperation accorded it by the student body assured it another successful year.

The officers were:

President ..... Frank Schiavone
Vice-President ..... Stowell Gary
Second Vice-President ..... Eugene Maggio
Secretary ..... Anthony L. Sapienza
Assistant Secretary ..... Merle Curry

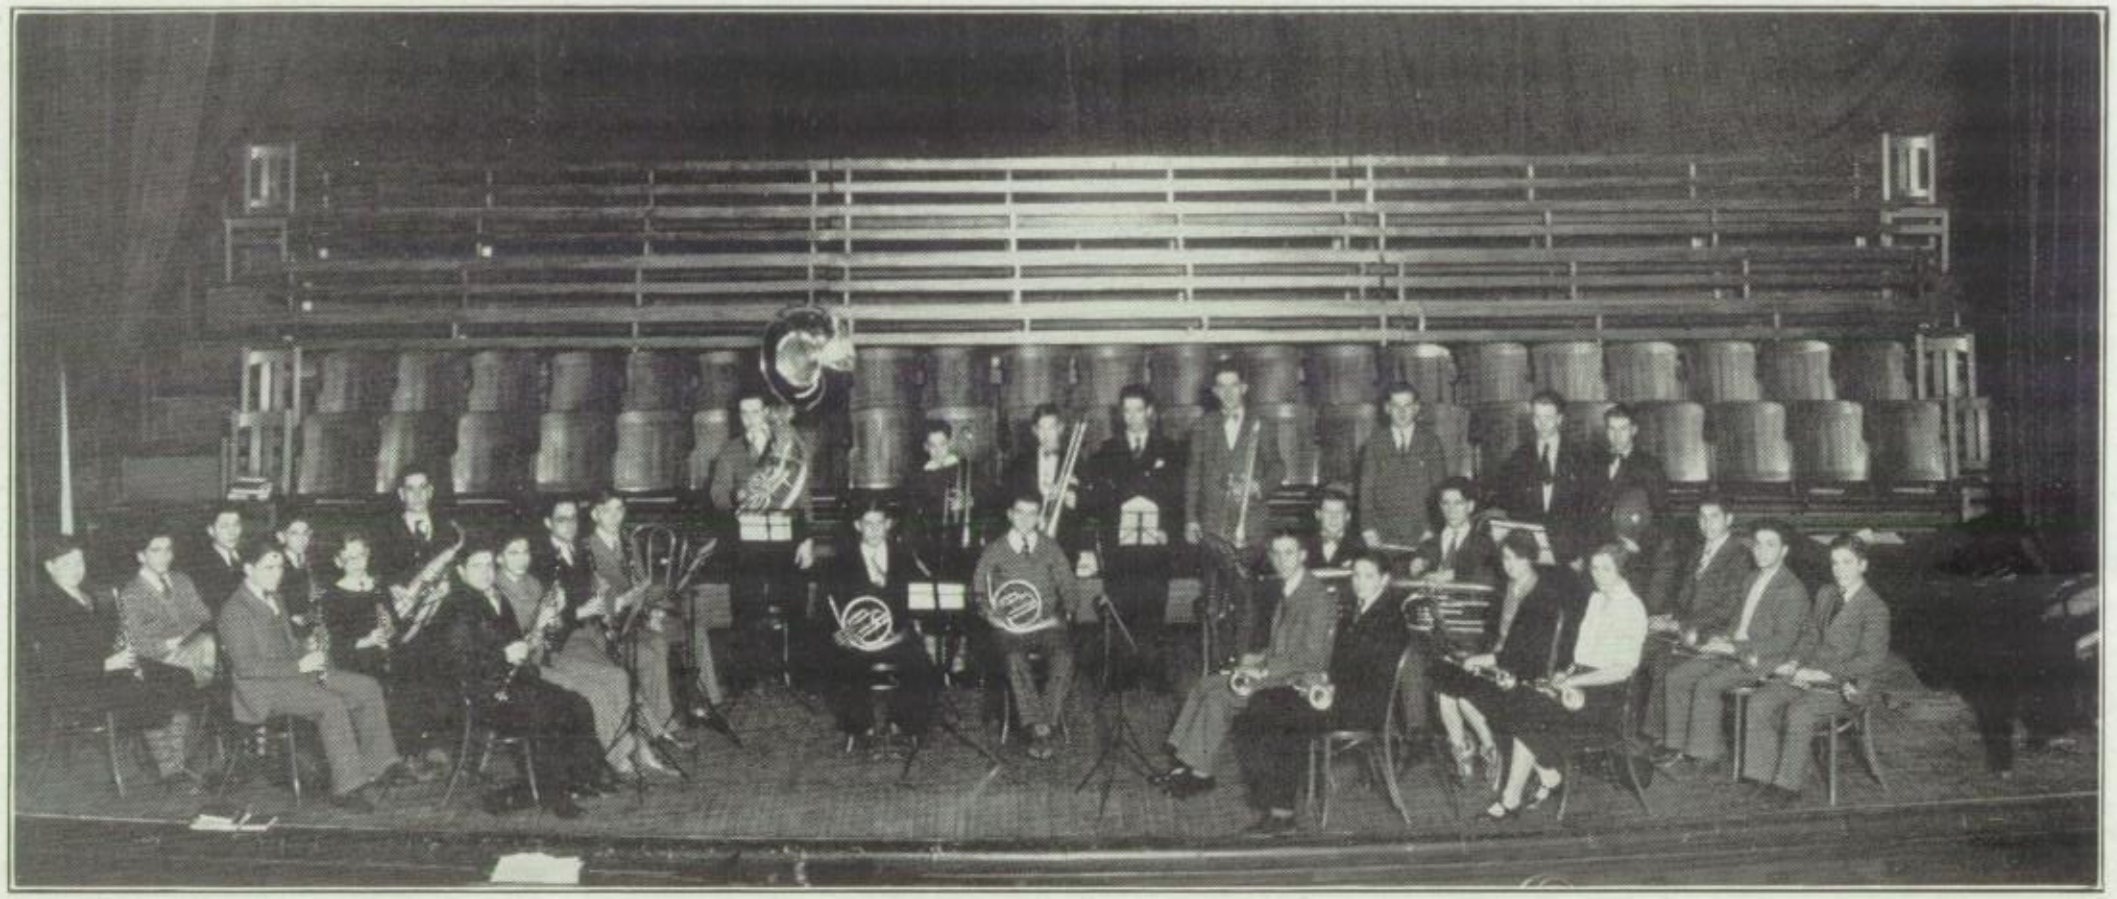
MONITORS

The Glee Club

Under the leadership of our Miss Ormond, the Glee Club has sustained its reputation of "the bit of musical sunshine in the school." The Glee Club has not given many programs during the year and perhaps that is why those that were given were doubly appreciated. Though it has met only twice a week, it has succeeded in being a prominent part of the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs.

In order to prove what it really can accomplish, the Glee Club, in the annual school concert held May 3, 1929, presented some very fine numbers. Without a doubt it was one of the best concerts ever given.

President ..... George Doran
Vice-President ..... Floretta Cohen
Secretary ..... Florence Lazuras
Treasurer ..... Anthony La Duca
Librarian ..... Margaret Miori



The Band

On Monday and Wednesday, first hour, strains of music have come floating down from 450 to rooms below. Pupils have kept time unconsciously to martial music and have hummed along with school songs. These impromptu concerts have been furnished by the Band. The Band this year has been unusually good for many talented players have joined it. The success of Junior Day and Senior Day will be added to by the Band, and rumors have it that the Band promises several numbers which will appeal to everyone. Junior Day or Senior Day would not be complete if the Band were not to play. Several assemblies have been participated in by the Band. The sight of the players in their uniforms of brown, blue and white is an added attraction, and we simply must march to the music when the Band begins to play. The presence of girls has made an added attraction and we urge both boys and girls who can play or wish to play any band instrument to see Mr. Hull or Mr. Nichols from whom information can be obtained. We want to thank the Band for their fine playing.

The Orchestra

At the first meeting of the Orchestra this year Anthony Gervase was elected president; Avrom Greenberg, vice-president; and Philomena Marino, secretary. Rehearsals have been bi-weekly and a great deal has been accomplished. There was some very interesting new music to be learned and the members have enjoyed the very routine.

It has been a very busy year as usual for the Orchestra. It has played for many assemblies including all the parents' days, the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs and the Washington's birthday program. It also furnished the incidental music for the school play for two of the evening performances.

On March the second, the Orchestra, with the assistance of Carleton Emslie, soloist; Joseph Romano, violinist; and George Wolfe, reader, gave a radio program from station W. S. V. S. It was a novel and interesting experience for the members of the organization and proved entertaining for those who tuned in.

The Orchestra also did its full share in making the annual school concert on May 3 a splendid success.

Public Speaking

This year the Boy's Declamation Contest was won by Darvin DeMarchi, the second place by Anthony Sapienza, and the third place by Odell Porter. In the City Oratorical Contest Anthony Sapienza carried second prize, and Mary Birmingham was our representative in the Girls' City Declamation Contest. Something of an innovation was introduced this year in the way of Freshman Declamation Contests. The Freshman Girls' Contest was won by Gertrude Lubick, with second honors divided between Dorothy Van der Meulen and Lucille Coon. In the Freshman Boys' Contest Michael Menza carried off premier honors while the second prize was awarded to Raymond Schanzer.

At the beginning of the second term there was such interest in Dramatics that it was necessary to form two classes. This spring the eighth hour class presented "Drums of Oude", a one-act play, the scene of which is laid in India, and received much commendation for it. The fourth hour class presented "Six Who Pass While the Lentils Boil", with such success that the audience asked that it be presented in assembly, but lack of an open date made this impossible.

Press Club

The Press Club was organized early in 1928. In order to become a member of the club, seventy-five inches of news material must be published in the "Hutch-in-Sun."

Each member of the club wears an attractive, blue and gold pin with the letters H. P. C. on it.

Nine of the members attended a convention at Cornell University, early in December. While they were there they received third prize for the school publications.

The officers for the year were:

President ..... Carleton Emslie

Vice-President ..... Jerome Brock

Secretary ..... Isabella Reardon

Treasurer ..... Edmond Coleman

Decoration Club

TheDecoration Club, under the supervision of Mr. Lorz, has had a very successful year. Although this is his first year as our faculty adviser, Mr. Lorz has proved himself very capable of doing this work.

Every member of the Decoration Club was assigned to a class which met once a week in the greenhouse. Here the members became acquainted with plants, their care, their diseases, and their development.

The Decoration Club has the responsibility of caring for the various plants which are placed in the study-rooms. This work is interesting, and helps the students to appreciate these lovely gifts of Nature.

The officers for this year are:

President ..... Carleton Emslie

Vice-President ..... Tillie Miller

Recording Secretary ..... Florence Moyer

Publicity Secretary ..... Henry Kantowski

Treasurer ..... Robert Gross

Literary Society

The first meeting of the Literary Society of H. C. H. S. for the school year 1928-29 was held the afternoon of September 27, 1928. Miss Tehan was introduced as our new faculty adviser upon the resignation of Miss Reed.

The October meeting was held at the home of Velma Hurst and the new members were initiated. A Christmas party was held at the home of Jack Ebberts. The annual Christmas Dance for active and passive members was held in the Rand room of the Consistory.

In February the following officers were elected at the meeting held at the home of Hamilton Jones.

President ..... Edmond Coleman

Vice-President ..... Blanche Lankler

Secretary ..... Margaret Wolff

Treasurer ..... Edward Ireland

The school year will close for "Lit" at an all-day picnic, to which all active and passive members are invited.

The Commerce Club

The Commerce Club was as active this year as ever in both social and educational affairs.

This June we shall present a scholarship medal to the Commercial Senior having the highest average, as has been our custom for the past three years.

In October we sponsored an assembly, and had as speaker Mr. Harry E. Dodge, General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Fall River, Massachusetts, now retired. In March we sponsored a trip to the new Museum of Natural Science at Humboldt Park.

Officers for this year were:

President ..... Joseph Marvin

First Vice-President ..... Ruth Marcussen

Second Vice-President ..... Frances Day

Secretary ..... Henrietta Maier

Assistant Secretary ..... Albert Conner

Treasurer ..... Fred Beck

Assistant Treasurer ..... Edmond Coleman

H M K G Club

The aim of our club this year has been Student Friendship.

In October Miss Messersmith spoke to us on how we might extend our friendship to students in other lands. She told us what students in other countries are doing and it made us feel that we would enjoy their friendship.

In January we had a sleigh ride out into the country, returning to Margaret and Louise McCracken's home for cocoa and sandwiches. After playing games we all went home closer friends with all the girls in the club.

Our February meeting was a joint meeting with Masten, East, Lafayette, Kenmore, and State Teachers College.

On March 14, 1929, the following were elected for the coming year:

President ..... Adeline Culotta

Vice-President ..... Isabella Villa

Secretary ..... Louise McCracken

Treasurer ..... Dominica Valvo

The Science Club

Under the assistance of our faculty advisers, Mr. Piper and Mr. Guthrie, the Science Club has had a very successful year.

At our first meeting on November 5, we adopted a Constitution and elected officers. Since then our meetings have been devoted to fostering the aim of this club, namely—to promote interest in science. On December 3, the club was taken on a delightful trip through Holland, by means of slides which proved both educational and interesting. This trip was sponsored by Robert Gross.

We opened the new year by selecting as the emblem of our club a pin which anyone may be proud to wear. In March, instead of our usual indoor meeting, the club visited the Museum of Natural Science in a body.

At a spring meeting slides on the microscopic world were presented by Mr. Gary.

The officers of the club were:

President ..... Darvin De Marchi

First Vice-President ..... Mildred Bell

Second Vice-President ..... Elmer Toll

Recording Secretary ..... Mary Birmingham

Treasurer ..... Robert Gross

Corresponding Secretary ..... Leone Babcock

Hutch Club

Hutch club officers for the first term were:

President ..... Robert Cameron
Vice-President ..... Carleton Emslie
Secretary ..... George Wolfe
Treasurer ..... Norman Kreuter
Marshal ..... Richard Lane

For the second term, Richard Lane was elected president to fill the place left vacant by the graduation of Cameron. At this time also Oswald Till was elected marshal.

The club had a very successful year under the leadership of Bill Beischline, former Hutch student.

Among the achievements of the club for the past year were the collection of Thanksgiving baskets, a father and son, and a mother and son banquets, and a closing dinner and dance. The club was also host to Mr. F. H. Yost, University of Michigan athletic director, during his visit to Buffalo.

The Girl Reserves

The Girl Reserve meetings are held every Friday afternoon at the Central Branch of the Y. W. C. A.

The meetings this year have been made especially interesting, in that the programs have been given in the form of a voyage. Each week we were carried into new lands and new scenes.

The assembly program given in March was a reunion of our voyagers.

The annual Mid-winter Conference in February was held at Rochester. Our delegates brought back new and interesting ideas which, we feel, will aid the club in future years.

Faculty day was held in March and we were very pleased to see so many teachers present.

President ..... Ruth Buehrig

Vice-President ..... Eva Meloon

Secretary ..... Olive Sketchley

Treasurer ..... Muriel McKenzie

CHESS CLUB

The Debating Club

The Debating Club is the infant society of the school. It was organized during the month of February with twelve members registered. The officers elected were:

President ..... CHARLES SCHEELER

Vice-President ..... THOMAS LIPPIS

Secretary-Treasurer ..... GRAYCE L. WENSLEY

Because the inter-scholastic debates occurred in March, all activities of the society were stopped for preparation for the debates, after which the meetings were resumed. An interesting and valuable future is planned for this new society under the supervision of the faculty adviser, Mr. Shilt.

French Club

"La Societe Francaise" was reorganized in November under the supervision of Mrs. Schang. The purpose of the club is to promote an interest in the French language and arts, and to lead to the accurate and fluent use of French.

The programs, consisting of plays and games, proved of great interest and lasting value to the members. French songs were sung and slides of France were shown at a number of the meetings.

The members of the club are carrying on correspondence with pupils in France, and are learning much of colloquial French in this way. "French as spoken in Paris" is our motto.

One of the outstanding social events was the French play, "Treize a Table," given in the school auditorium in March. French students from the other high schools in Buffalo were invited and the played proved a great success.

The officers of the club are:

President ..... Thomas Kennelly

Vice-President ..... Darvin De Marchi

Secretary ..... Adamine J. Mentecka

Treasurer ..... Robert Gross

Spanish Club

Faculty Adviser ..... MR. CARDENAS

President ..... EDMUND LEONE

Vice-President ..... JACK MIGLIORE
(resigned at end of first term)

Vice-President ..... HERBERT VAN CUREN

Secretary-Treasurer ..... MAE E. BOGUL

Trustee ..... FLORENCE LEVENDOSKI

During the past year 1928-1929 El Club Espaniol has held regular meetings every second and fourth Tuesday of each month. In accordance with Mr. Cardenas' advice, social committees were chosen to aid in the getting up of programs for the entertainment of the club members. Many of the members have entered wholeheartedly into the spirit of the club and have helped to make it a success. It is sincerely hoped that next year the club may grow to even greater proportions and be a very important aid to the Spanish students.

"Il Circolo Italiano"

Holding ever in mind the purposes of "Il Circolo Italiano"—those of promoting an interest in the study of the Italian language, and an appreciation for the art and literature of Italy—"Il Circolo", the first language organization at Hutchinson, has enjoyed a most pleasant and profitable year. Now in its twelfth year, it has an enrollment of fifty members.

Throughout the year we have had delightful programs presented, the lives of famous Italians have been read, important buildings have been described; illustrated talks on Italy have been features of much importance and enjoyment. Mr. Di Bartolo, our faculty adviser, has been of great influence in stimulating loyalty and spirit in the organization.

It is hoped that with the ideals of Hutchinson and of "Il Circolo" before us our organization may rise to greater heights.

The officers for 1928-29 were:

President ..... Anthony Sapienza

Vice-President ..... Nancy Morabito

Treasurer ..... Vincent Di Pasquale

Secretary ..... Elvira Privitera

Marshal ..... Dominic Di Vito

Allemannia

For the first time in the history of Hutchinson-Central High School, there is a German Club—called the "Allemannia". It was organized in June 1928 for the express purpose of creating and promoting an interest in the German language, literature, and art.

The officers for the year 1928-29 were:

President ..... Jerome Brock

Vice-President ..... Ida Kublitz

Secretary ..... Eleanor Schilling

Treasurer ..... Stowell Gary

During the year, at the various social gatherings, excerpts from divers manuscripts on Germany were read, German songs were sung, and motion pictures of Germany were shown. The outstanding social event, however, was the luncheon given by Miss Manhardt, the club adviser, at the Hotel Lennox, in December.

Football

Hutchinson enjoyed an unusually successful season in football this year. We won four out of eight games, a very good showing. Coach "Larry" Sparfeld built up a most aggressive aggregation from the splendid material available from the previous year. The backfield centered about the fleet-footed "War-Horse," Schiavone, whose long runs were the sensation of the series. The half-back Foster showed up well as a running mate for Schiavone, while the tackles of Bellario, the other half-back, were a feature of every game. The line smashes of the giant fullback Migliori gained consistent yardage. The line found the major part of its strength in the hard-hitting, fast-charging center, Captain Jerry Brock, the formidable Benny Nisberg, at left tackle, and in Pat Salemi and Allie Zuk in the end positions. "Pete" Gary, at left guard, Dick Lane at right guard, and George Doran at right tackle, formed a powerful trio in every play. Although some players showed up to a better advantage than others, credit is due them all, for every position on a football team is vital. Our Brown and Blue eleven was to be reckoned with in every contest, and our crowning laurel was gained when we defeated the powerful Bennett team for the first time by a decisive score of twelve to nothing.

At the end of the season places on the All-High teams were awarded to Frank Schiavone, Benny Nisberg, Jerry Brock and Pat Salemi.

Cross Country

This year the cross country schedule was changed. Each of the Buffalo public high schools ran in a series of dual meets. Hutch's first opponent was South Park. The Hutch harriers were in top form and trounced the opponents 17-46. Captain Deranek and Phil Kareff ran a tie race for first place honors.

In the next race with East High as the adversary, a most unusual thing happened in the form of a tie score. Kareff was Hutch's first man in and he was followed closely by Bill Deranek.

In the last dual race Hutch defeated Lafayette by the close score of 27-28. Captain Deranek won the race easily and was followed by Kareff who finished third. The following is a list of the first division men in the dual races: Deranek, Kareff, Schnabel, Brown, Perry, Spahn and Stelmaszyk.

On November 1, the annual Columbia Cross Country run was held at the Delaware Park meadows. This year there was great rivalry between the schools and there was a record attendance of about 5000. The race was won by Bennett, Tech finished second, closely followed by the Hutch runners. The Hutch men who earned their letters in this race are: Captain William Deranek, Philip Kareff, John Schnabel, Kenneth Perry, Bernard Stelmaszyk, Emerie Spahn and Otto Geist.

Geist and Kareff will be the only veterans back next year but many of the squad men have shown surprisingly good form and from them we are expecting a great team next fall.

Basketball

Considering the fact that Hutchinson entered the 1928-29 Yale Cup Series without a single veteran from last year, due credit must be given to our plucky team which offered its opponents keen competition throughout the entire season.

We opened the series with a win over Tech and later in the season handed them a second setback. The first South Park contest was not decided until the final quarter, the score being against us 31-21. We had an "even break" with East—that is, a win and a loss. The Bennett games were hotly contested affairs, in which our boys fought the Orange and Blue to their utmost before we yielded up the victories 18-10 and 30-23. As host to Lafayette we accepted the short end of a 36-17 score. But that second Masten encounter! Say, it was the game of all games in which we upset Fosdick in a contest replete with thrills. Every man worked as he never worked before, and when time was called Hutch was pronounced victor by the score of 22-21. This was the only defeat of the season for the Yellow and Blue five, Cup winners and Sectional Champions.

Coach Ray Glunz did remarkable work in handling and developing the team to the extent he did. Captain Paul Smaldone deserves much credit for the judgment he used in carrying out his duties and for his fine cooperation with his team-mates: Harold Weinberg, Joseph Ferraro, Max Katz, David Grelick, and Abe Katz.

Swimming

The first call for candidates for the swimming team was issued November 20. Due to graduation only two members of last year's championship team, Saari and Beck, reported.

During the year a new rule was put into effect. This rule, which allowed the contestants to partake in only one event and either the fancy dive or the relay, necessitated a team of fourteen men.

After hard training and a few practice meets a practically new and inexperienced team opened the Syracuse Cup series on January 31, when Hutch defeated East by the score of 37-32. In the next two Cup meets Hutch easily defeated Fosdick-Masten and Technical, 41-18 and 48-21, respectively. The next meet proved to be the best of the year, when our team defeated Bennett 38-31. The final event, the relay, decided the winner. On February 27, Hutch suffered its only setback of the series when we were defeated by the strong Lafayette team by the score of 58-10.

In the sectional meet held March 2, Don Faber won the 120 yard medley and Urho Saari finished second in the 40 yard free-style, thus winning the right to represent the Buffalo Section in the state meet at Colgate.

Besides 13 boys who received squad letters, the following boys received the Major "H" award of the School; Urho Saari, captain, Donald Faber, David Rhoads, Frank Hanavan, Howard Holgate, Albert Shaw, Earl Boyer, Jack O'Brien, Otto Geist, Norman Rasch and Lawrence Hennessey, manager.

Hockey

With five veterans in the line-up, our Hockey team looked like a championship outfit at the beginning of the season but there were two better teams in the field and Hutch was forced to occupy third position when the series was over.

In the initial fracas, a powerful defense featured a brilliant 2 to 0 win over Lafayette. We took another stride toward the cup by defeating the strong Fosdick-Masten team by a score of 3 to 1. In the third game, we continued our winning streak to hand East High School a 2 to 0 setback. When the final whistle blew, Hutch held undisputed first place in the series.

However, our success was to be short lived for the following day we met the fast Bennett aggregation and the orange and blue emerged victorious, 3 to 0. Fresh from the Bennett defeat, we encountered the cup-winning Tech team and in spite of the fact that we played an evenly matched game, we were thwarted in this final combat which ended Tech 3, Hutch 1.

Due to lack of ice, one game remained unplayed, that with South Park.

Both Doran and Lane played an excellent game at defense while Mecca gave a good performance at the cage. Generas, Ireland, Gary and Ebberts proved a threat to the strongest opponents. Captain Oswald Till, although held scoreless, contributed largely to the success of each game by his brilliant pass work and effective checking.

Four of this year's letter men as well as several squad men will be back next year to make another attempt to annex the coveted trophy.

Track

The track season opened this year with the Inter-Studyroom Track and Field meet in January. Over 125 different boys took part, a large number being freshmen and sophomores. However, 190 won the Edward Rose Loving Cup again this year.

The Courier-Express Meet came on April 12. Hutch's team had trained hard for several days at the Armory. All the best athletes of Western New York were there, but with several of last year's team back we hoped to make a good showing. Migliore brought three points to Hutch by placing second in the shot put and Deranek scored three more points by finishing third in the half-mile and fourth in the 440 yards run. This gave Hutch six points and sixth place. Our relay team composed of Huber, Migliore, Deranek and Guercio also ran a good race.

This year something entirely new is being tried in Track. There were three meets among several high schools at a time. The team this year has again had the capable coaching of Mr. Moody and may he have a championship team next year.

Baseball

The call for baseball candidates was issued during the latter part of March. Many answered the call, including 12 veterans.

In the first of the Cornell cup games, with Dyte on the mound, we defeated our sister school, Lafayette, by the score of 8-7. In the second game, we lost to Bennett, supposedly the strongest team this year. As if to avenge this defeat, however, we downed East High, 11-1, in the next game, Wantuck occupying the stellar role. At the time of press, these games were the only ones played.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank Miss King, Miss Downs, Miss Ames, and Miss Taylor for their kind assistance in bringing the boys out to the games in their cars.

With Mr. George J. Kalbfleisch as coach, Paul Smaldone and Jack Ebberts as captains, and with the able playing of the team, there is no obstacle in our path to victory in the remaining games.

Tennis

The Hutchinson tennis team was out again this year to do its bit in the Bowen Cup series. The squad this year was composed almost entirely of Juniors and Sophomores. Wet weather made outside practice impossible, so the squad practiced inside.

The squad was:

David Grelich, Captain
Jackob Levite
Harold Weinberg
Frederick Liesinger
Merle Curry
Hyman Reisner
Hyman Honig
Henry Nix
Nathan Steinberg
Francis Simonson
Joseph Martin
Donald Faber

Levite, Weinberg and Grelich representing Hutch in the sectional contest met defeat at the hands of South Park. This defeat eliminated Hutch from the sectional contest.

The final result cannot be predicted, but the team hopes to place among the first.

Volley Ball

The girls in both annexes have great fun with Volley Ball. It is a most fascinating game bringing out every ounce of energy and enthusiasm while the ball is in play. There are 18 girls on a side. The big "Service Ball" is used. With two halves to a game, and a short time in which to play, competition is keen.

Practice began in the Seminary Annex Gymnasium in February and continued until Easter with Miss Larson and Miss Kempner in charge.

Freshmen Captain Ball

Captain Ball games bring out more enthusiasm than any other after-school activity in the Seminary gymnasium. In October over 200 girls signed up to practice and play—forming six Seminary teams and three Franklin. Games were finished December 12th with Miss Kempner and Miss Larson in charge. Seminary "X" won the trophy. After the Brown and Blue series, a large party was given and thoroughly enjoyed by all Captain Ball players.

Hiking

Spring! — — — — Again the call for hikes to the Old Fort, Sheridan Drive, Frenchman's Creek, and Grand Island, well known and loved places by all Hutch hikers.

The trip to Grand Island is considered the best of the season. The average number of girls who attend these hikes is 84. Besides the many pleasures derived from them the girls are greatly aided by the counts given to them toward their athletic award. For each five mile hike a girl receives ten counts and for each ten mile hike she receives twenty counts. The Grand Island hike is the best of the year. The eats are one of the main features. Upon arriving the girls build bonfires and the delicious aroma of roasted hot dogs and marshmallows fill the air. After eating the girls sit around and sing accompanied by a "uke" or two and those who are more curious explore the Old Hotel that is boarded up and not in use. After a two hour stay the girls start home tired but happy.

Baseball

Our national game was as popular as ever on the feminine side of the house and every Monday and Wednesday the gym was made merry by some 150 girls practicing diligently for the interstudy-room games to be held a little later in the season.

If anyone had doubted the ability of the "fair sex" to bat a ball, a run down to the gym some Monday or Wednesday after school would have convinced them of their error. The girls are indebted for their coaching to Miss Kayser and Miss Walsh.

"Pat" Coughlin.

Basketball

The first call for basketball was answered by an enthusiastic group of one hundred sixty-nine girls. The practice started immediately under the supervision of our coaches, Miss Walsh and Miss Kayser. After a few weeks of practice the teams were ready to play the inter-study room games.

The girls entered into these games with much enthusiasm. So many girls participated that it was necessary to organize at least two teams in each study room and a few had three and four teams. Altogether 48 games were played in the series. Much keen competition was exhibited. The seniors were victorious and will receive the trophy in June.

Swimming

Swimming is undoubtedly the most popular sport among the girls. This is shown every year by the large number of pupils registered in classes. A total of 569 girls enrolled throughout the year. Despite this large number, much progress was made. After three or four months, Miss Sherrill was able to determine which girls would take part in the study-room competition.

The first meet was one between the four classes. In this the seniors were victorious with 57 points, the sophomores second with 44, the freshmen third with 35, and the juniors trailed with 18.

This was followed by the inter-study-room meets. The final tussle between the two senior study-rooms was won by 140 by a score of 30-18. Swimming for 140 were: Dorothy Rossenbach, captain, Clara Naab, Frances Day, Mary Dixon, Mae Bogul, Vivian Wonnocott, Mary Wright, Blanche Lankler, Evelyn Chronaberry, Edna Willahan, manager.

The girls of the advanced class have also spent a great deal of time on life-saving and are about to take the test.

A party in June concluded this year's activities.

We wish to thank Miss Sherrill for her persistent and untiring efforts.

Tennis

Last fall the usual elimination contest was held with an unusually large number of girls participating. Due to inclement weather the girls did not finish all their matches but the following were still in the contest and were eligible for the team:

Dorothy Bement
Mary Jane Carriers
Katherine De Poti
Blanche Lankler
Aline Lankler
Milagros Manrique De Lara
Florence Perry
Gertrude Rubenstein

This year we experimented with indoor practice during the winter and have found it very successful. Under the able coaching of Miss Kayser we have improved to such an extent that we feel the team representing Hutchinson is stronger than ever this year.

The inter-high school tournament was held this spring but the results of the games were not obtained in time for the Calendar.

BREVITY

An English cub reporter, frequently reprimanded for prolixity and warned to be brief, turned in the following report.

"A shocking affair occurred last nite. Sir Edward Hopeless, a guest at Lady Panmore's ball, complained of feeling ill, took his hat, his coat, his departure, no notice of his friends, a taxi, a pistol from his pocket, and finally his life. Nice chap. Regrets and all that."

HE'S A BEAR

She: "My hubby does so enjoy smoking in his den. Has your husband a den?"

Other She: "No, he growls all over the house."

She: "You know that I love you and will be true to the last."

He: "But how long shall I be the last?"

AUTHORITATIVE

"Bill is going to retire from business for five years."

"Oh, I've heard him say that before."

"Yes, but this time, the judge said it."

MAKING IT EASY

Mrs. Buy-on-time: "How much is this chair?"

Salesman: "It's $10 cash."

Mrs. B.' "And how much on installments?"

Salesman: "It's $15—$10 down and $1 a week for five weeks."

FAIR ENOUGH

"I'll give you just three days to pay your rent."

"All right, I'll take Christmas, Easter, and the Fourth of July."

TRY THIS ONE

Mr. Milligan: "If I'll be l'aving security equal to what I take away, will yez trust me till next week?"

Butcher: "Certainly."

Mr. Milligan: "Well, then, sell me two av thim hams and kape wan av thim 'till I come again."

Artist: "Be careful with that picture—it's not dry yet."

Porter: "That's all right sir; I've got my old coat on."

New Student to traffic cop: "Where can I find a nice, big, airy room, cheap?"

Traffic Cop: "Turn left at the next red signal and I can accommodate you."

Policeman in Chicago, seeing a Scotchman, walking with his pants over his arm: "What are you looking for?"

Scotchman: "I'm looking for the Chicago Free Press."

Doctor, inquiring after boy who had swallowed a half dollar: "How is the patient, today?"

Anxious mother: "No change, yet."

A new instrument is a combination of the violin and the saxophone. We were afraid somebody would think of that.

"Mamma, why do elephants have such big trunks?"

"Well, they have to come all the way from India, don't they?"

First Student: "What do you think of Czecko-Slovakia?"

Second Idiot: "Well, it's hard to say."

Jim: "I heard Bill took a penny for his thoughts the other day."

Jack: "Yeah, and the government arrested him for profiteering."

"I shall not use tobacco,"
Said little Robert Reed.
"It seems, since girls smoke cigarettes,
Effeminate, indeed."

Woman landlord to tenant: "And the kitchen, Mrs. James, is in a terrible condition."

Tenant: "Yes, Ma'am, it is. And you'd look the same if you hadn't had any paint on for six years."

Two rash students in law class were engaged in a heated argument.

Law Student 1: "You're the dumbest person I ever saw."

Absent-minded Professor, hitting the desk with his fist: "Gentlemen, you forget that I am in the room."

Lady, in a pet store: "I like this dog, but his legs are too short."

Salesman: "Too short! Why madam, they all four reach the floor."

It was dusk as she stopped at a roadside garage.

"I want a quart of red oil," she said.

The man gasped and hesitated.

"Give me a quart of red oil," she repeated.

"A quart of red oil?"

"Certainly," she said, "My tail light has gone out."

THE UNIVERSITY OF BUFFALO

School of Dentistry

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Council of the University of Buffalo announce the adoption of the four-quarter plan of instruction in the teaching of dentistry. The first session will begin July 1st, 1929. The course is continuous and consists of twelve quarters of eleven weeks each with vacation periods of two weeks between the quarters.

The curriculum consists of a basic and a specialized course of instruction. The basic course considers dentistry, as a branch of medicine and in conjunction with the faculty of the School of Medicine, courses are offered in the fundamental subjects with credit toward the medical degree. The future contact of the medical and dental practitioners is secured through this common basic training. It is imperative in the conservation of human life that these two great professions of health service should have a common ground for the interchange of ideas. The object of the basic instruction is to gain a higher and broader interpretation of the relation which dentistry bears toward the cause and treatment of systemic disease.

The course of dental specialization is to teach the student to become a creative, independent practitioner. It consists of fundamental instruction in technical procedures which constantly alternate with infirmary schedules. Students are allowed to progress as fast as they may demonstrate their ability. They are given every opportunity for clinical experience in independent practice by the various assignments at the hospital wards and clinics.

The economic feature of this course is appealing to the average student who wishes to enter dental practice at the earliest opportunity, as it reduces the dental course of six years to one of five years (two years of pre-professional and three years of medico-dental study). Unparalleled opportunities are offered at the hospitals to determine through study and research the interdependence of medicine and dentistry in cooperative diagnosis.

Professional study requires a type of education commensurate with the responsibilities of professional practice. In view of the recent advance in both the theoretical and clinical work, valuable time may be saved by utilitizing the long summer vacation period. More constant contact with the professional curriculum results inevitably in a greater breadth of knowledge and a higher accomplishment in technical skill.

Dentistry offers unusual opportunities to those who wish to specialize in surgery, orthodontia, technical and scientific fields, and in general health education.

The classes are limited in numbers.

The next college term opens July 1st, 1929. Catalog on request.

Basketball

The first call for Basketball was answered by 165 girls and practice started immediately under the supervision of the coaches, Miss Walsh and Miss Kayser. After four weeks of learning the fundamentals of the game, the teams were ready for the interstudy room games to decide the championship for 1928. The captains and managers were elected as follows:

	Captain	Manager
140	Ruth Wilson	Dina Barcellona
200	Dorothy Rossenbach	Clara Naab
240	Margaret Dunkirk	Margaret Wolff
300	Thirza Donegan	Grace Krull
306	Genevieve Rindone	Vera Williams
340	Rosa Perry	Mary Farkas
438	Aline Lankler	Lucy Spampata
440	Marie Borabito	Jennie Toth

Each official had definite duties to perform in connection with practice and games. The competitors exhibited enthusiasm and competition was keen. The final and most exciting game was between 140 and 240 which resulted in a senior victory. The Basketball Cup will be presented to 140 on girls' athletic morning.

The Brown and Blue Series concluded the seasons' activities. These teams are composed of the best players from all study room teams. This year the teams were so evenly matched that the three games were played with ultimate success to the Brown Team.

Hiking

Hiking is one of the activities adopted by the high schools of Buffalo in a voluntary program of physical education for girls. This program is conducted after the regular school day. Its purpose is to promote the interest of the girls in sports, games, and out-door exercise, and to provide opportunities for wholesome recreation. For each mile she walks, a girl earns two points. A minimum of 30 points per year is required in order to receive any credit toward an award. All hikes are carefully planned and personally conducted under the supervision of physical education teachers. All of the hikes are well attended. The total of fall hikes numbered 395.

Some of the places that the hikers visit are: Frenchman's Creek, Fort Erie, Ellicott Creek and Grand Island. The last is probably the most delightful. Starting from the Riverside City Line, at 10 o'clock, we ferry across to the Island. Hiking northward, we approach an old hotel that has been vacated since approximately 1913. Here everyone has a real thrill! Fires are built at the water's edge. "Eats" come next. Roasted hot-dogs and toasted marshmallows seem to touch the spot.

Stepping snappily along in nature's beautiful out of doors, attired in our knickers and sweaters, we spend many happy hours together, chatting and singing. With sorrow in our hearts, we hear our teacher-guide kindly inform us that we are to call a halt to our march at the next road. Even though we are exhausted when we go to bed after such a day of merriment we feel fresh and fine the next morning, and our enthusiasm for this form of exercise is so genuine that we feel we would enjoy hiking every day.

For Health—For Fitness Captain Ball

1927-1928

In health activity one of our most enjoyable Freshman games is Captain Ball. During the fall and winter months this year, the Franklin and Seminary Annex girls met in the big Seminary gymnasium, twice a week, to practice and learn to play Captain Ball. Over a hundred girls were trained in the art of throwing, catching, guarding the ball. They learned the value of team work and the necessity of fair play. Teams were formed as follows:

Seminary Annex B. C. A. Franklin Annex B. C. A.

The captains and managers were elected and a Round Robin Tournament was played, resulting in victory for Seminary X. At the close of the series the best players of all the teams were selected by the coaches, Misses Larson and Kempner, to form the two major Brown and Blue teams. The school championship was won by the Blue Team.

Some of the games were close, competition keen, and both the Seminary and Franklin Annex girls played well. At the end of this full program a delightful party was given for all those who had come out for the event.

Volley Ball

The Spring Sport for Freshmen girls is Volley Ball. One hundred freshmen from the Franklin Annex and the Seminary Annex came out every Tuesday and Thursday afternoons for practice. After six weeks of training, six teams were chosen: Franklin A, B, and D, and Seminary A, B, and X.

A uniform program of games is followed and is under way at present. The games played up to date have been very close and it is difficult to predict the winner. At the end of the tournament, the best players from all the teams will be selected to play on the major teams—Brownies and Bluies.

The freshmen girls are showing excellent spirit and are developing qualities of skill, courage and endurance. The Volley Ball season will end with a final celebration in the form of a party given at the Seminary gymnasium for all girls who played on the teams.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Swimming

Every year swimming increases in popularity, and this year is no exception, as over four hundred and fifty girls were registered either to learn to swim or to enjoy their knowledge of the sport.

During the school year swimming meets are held in which teams form the different classes and study rooms compete. In the interclass meet, which was held in December, the Junior Team was victorious with a score of 42 points; Seniors second, 24 points; Freshmen, 9 points, and the Sophomores trailed with 8 points.

The captains and managers elected by the teams were:

Team	Captains	Managers
Senior	Margaret Wolff	Virginia Greer
Junior	Dorothy Williams	Dorothy Rossenbach
Sophomore	Aline Lankler	Irene Mazenauer
Freshman	Helen Meagher	Evelyn Lagoy

The interstudy room meets are conducted by elimination. The championship for the trophy will be held between 200 and 240.

The final event is a meet conducted entirely by students between two major teams, the Brown and the Blue, composed of fourteen girls each. Altogether eighty-seven girls swam in the different meets.

Over a hundred girls have passed the Beginners' Red Cross Test, and swimmers and life savers are practicing for tests to be held in May.

DOROTHY WILLIAMS, Captain

Tennis

Thirty-eight girls entered the elimination tennis tournament conducted in the fall. The winner of the school tournament has not yet been decided, due to inclement weather. The finals will be played in the spring between Dorothy Wolfe and Mary Hurley. The following ten girls were the last to remain in the tournament and will receive 25 points toward their athletic award:

Dorothy Wolfe	Helen Kralik	Rose Ruffino
Blanche Lankler	Laura Sommer	Hildegarde Hogan
Eva Goldman	Mary Hurley	Adelaide Kaufman
	Lillian Klix

The annual inter high school Syracuse Tennis Tournament for girls will take place at the Park Club courts in May. The team will be composed of five of the upper ten girls and they will receive 75 points toward their award. Although only one member of last year's team remains, we have plenty of new recruits and we should have a very successful season.

MARY HURLEY, Manager
DOROTHY WOLFE, Captain

Baseball

For about six weeks every Monday and Wednesday afternoon scores of healthy, happy girls have gathered in the big gym and Room 90 to play our national game. The number of girls interested was greater this year than ever before. Competition was keen and offered many a "fast" and "peppy" game.

Under the supervision of Miss Larson and Miss Walsh the girls soon got back into their old batting form. Who can doubt the "fair sex's" ability to make a ball sail after he has watched girls in action? The girls receive 25 points for faithful practice and 25 points for playing on a study room team to count toward the award for which they are working.

Then comes the games for which the girls have been practicing. Rivalry is strong, but friendly, as each team is ambitious to be victor of the coveted trophy. In the games which are played in round robin fashion, the possible rivals for the trophy are 200 and 240.
